

Step Up to Better Health

Michigan Foot and Ankle

To most people, 45,000 feet would be some sort of distance measurement, but not to Harvey Lefkowitz, DPM, of Michigan Foot and Ankle. He estimates it's the approximate number of feet he's treated over the past 24 years. When it comes to feet, experience matters.

With offices in Ferndale, Milford and Commerce Township, Dr. Lefkowitz and his team of experts have treated everything from simple ankle sprains to complex foot and ankle surgeries in patients ranging from newborn to senior.

Each doctor spends quality time with each of their patients in order to better understand each individual patient's foot care needs, and to recommend the best course of treatment. They work closely with primary care physicians and other specialists to ensure the most effective treatment plan.

In May 2006, Dr. Anthony Giordano joined the Ferndale office--delivering personal service and state-of-the-art diagnosis and treatment. Sharing Dr. Lefkowitz's patient-first philosophy, Dr. Giordano was a natural addition to the team.

Dr. Giordano received his medical degree from Temple University's College of Podiatric Medicine where he graduated in the top 20% in his class. He completed a surgical residency at Roger Williams Medical Center, associated with both the Boston University and Brown University's schools of medicine. Subsequently, he served two additional years of surgical training in the Oakwood Hospital System, associated with Wayne State University School of Medicine.

At the same time, another change is taking place in Ferndale office. As many of Dr. Michelle Jupin's patients already know, the doctor will be taking a short hiatus from the office to welcome her baby daughter to her family. Fortunately for everyone, she plans to return this fall.

The same tradition of excellence began when the practice opened in Ferndale in 1982 and still remains strong. "Our staff is committed to providing the finest podiatric care in a warm friendly environment to make you feel relaxed and comfortable. Our goal is to help you feel better when leaving, than you did walking in," says Dr. Lefkowitz.
