

Dear Harvey

Betty and I were very pleased and genually awed by your kind compliments contained in your letter of Jan. 2, 2007. For a long period we have been vicariously affected by your professional prowess and many years of following the interactions of your family and their numerous activities.

Your friendship and excellent attention to our health needs over many years is appreciated beyond expression.

We admire your dedication to your professional career and the success you have manifested in advancing it.

With equal sincerity we recognize your importance of being a good father and family man.

You have garnered our respect in many ways. We take personal pride in having the good sense to choose you as our doctor and friend.

You are our prime example that "nice guys" do win.

Affectionately
